By creating and selling service animal tags or emotional support animal tags for animals and their handlers, Service Dog Tags and its employees do not claim to legally certify these animals or the purchaser of these tags. Nor do we have or claim to have the medical and/or legal authority or knowledge to give recommendations on the qualifications of service animals, emotional support animals or their handler. We do not guarantee that the use of our tags will enforce compliance with the ADA or any other federal, state and local law regarding the use of service animals or emotional support animals. If you have any question concerning the legality of your service animal or emotional support animal in relation to compliance with the ADA, or any other laws pertaining to service animals or emotional support animals and the laws regarding access we recommend you contact experts in your area. The following web site contains information regarding service animals: www.DeltaSociety.org

I am a Service Animal and my right to accompany my handler is protected by Federal Law
 In accordance with the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990
 Businesses May ask:
 1) Is this a Service Dog?
 2) What tasks does the Service Animal perform?
 Businesses May Not:
 1) Require special identification for the animal.
 2) Ask about the person's disability.
 3) Charge additional fees because of the animal.
 4) Refuse admittance, isolate, segregate, or treat this person less favorably than other patrons.
 A person with a disability cannot be asked to remove his service animal from the premises unless:
 1) the animal is out of control and the animal's owner does not take effective action to control it.
 2) the animal poses a direct threat to the health or safety of others.
 Any business that sells or prepares food must allow service animals in public areas even if state or local health codes prohibit animals on the premises.
 Refusal to provide equal access to people with disabilities with service animals is a federal civil rights violation, provided by the American Disability Act of 1990. Violators of the ADA can be required to pay money damages and penalties.

Back

1) What are the laws that apply to my business?
 2) Under the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), privately owned businesses that serve the public, such as restaurants, hotels, retail stores, grocery stores, concert halls, and sports facilities, are prohibited from discriminating against individuals with disabilities. The ADA requires these businesses to allow people with disabilities to bring their service animals into business premises in whatever areas customers are generally allowed.
 3) What must I do when a person with a service animal comes to my business?
 4) The service animal must be permitted to accompany the individual with a disability in all areas of the facility where customers are normally allowed to go. An individual with a service animal may not be segregated.
 5) How should I handle a clearly trained "pet" policy at my establishment?
 6) I will have to allow service animals.
 7) Yes, I will have to allow service animals.
 8) No, policy to allow the use of a service animal by a person with a disability, but does not mean you must tolerate your "pet" policy either.
 9) I reserve a private booth and I don't want anyone in my booth, the animal, and the person with the animal, will I violate the ADA if I refuse to ask someone with a service animal?
 10) Yes, Section 202(b) may not allow to provide services to individuals with disabilities. Private booth companies are also prohibited from charging higher fees or fees for transporting individuals with disabilities and their service animals than they charge to other patrons for the same or equivalent service.
 If you have further questions about service animals or other requirements of the ADA, you may call the U.S. Department of Justice, Justice Building, 425 Constitution Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20530, or call 1-800-514-0301 (voice) or 1-800-514-0302 (TDD).
